In his speech at the ice rink in Portland Wednesday night, the candidate delivered another broadside at the Democratic policies, concentrating his fire par-ticularly on the Philippine situation. He asserted the United States undertook to govern the islands properly, and that "we assumed obligations there which we are bound to discharge."

"We ought not to consider the sugges-tion of scuttling out of the Philippines," he said, "to leave them in a predicament which you know perfectly well without my describing it."

Hughes again made a pronouncement on the tariff and attacked the administration's attitude, asserting the Demo cratic party has opposed real progress.

"If I were a member of that party and looked through the platforms of the past I should feel that I was going through a cemetery richly embellished with monu
